J Rêve International

SUMMER 2016

J Rêve International is pleased to announce its upcoming program in Havana, Cuba, August 5–12th, 2016, in collaboration with ARYA Movement Project. “Our goal is to bring people together through intercultural creative exposure,” says Jacqueline Cofield, founder of J Rêve International.

“Art, wellness and spirituality are the basis of our artistic process and so we continue to research other communities that value spirituality and the arts,” explains Erica Bowen, Director of Arya Movement Project, a collective of artists that uses the healing and performing arts in their daily lives and artistic works. Participants will meet, study and explore with Cuban based artists through workshops that include yoga, Afro-Cuban dance, Salsa, Photography, Visual Arts, Film and more.

GLOBAL CREATIVITY MAGAZINE

On June 18th, J Rêve International announced the premiere issue of the Global Creativity Magazine, published online at www.globalcreativitymagazine.com. The premier edition features contributors from around the world, including writers from India, New Zealand, Canada, USA, and France.

The online magazine will focus on Global Arts and Creativity and feature Visual and Performing Arts stories from global citizens known and unknown; it aims to be a great resource for emerging, independent creatives. The magazine’s first volume will be released on a monthly basis and will be targeted to creatives with an interest in global awareness, culture, and human expression as presented through the arts.

A NEW WORLD DIAMOND REFLECTS A VARIETY OF LIGHT

The many facets of a diamond allows it to reflect all of the hues of the rainbow. Not only are the eyes entranced, but the heart is touched with a lasting impression. A new, global diamond is making hearts glow with love and peace. The J Rêve International approach to affecting the world with art is a welcome approach at a time when the world is engulfed in struggles that shrink the human spirit.

In the same way that as diamond reflects its rainbow of light, J Rêve International shines its light in many ways offering a variety of opportunities for people to come together and transform the world. In this newsletter you will find brief descriptions of each program, each a gem that has a glow unto itself. They represent a few of the ways that you can participate in touching the world in a meaningful way with results that last.

"HOW TO BE CREATIVE" WORKSHOPS

The future calls for creative leadership. J Rêve International organizes a number of these programs, bringing together larger audiences that participate and engage in lectures and discussions that enhance a student's ability to apply concepts such as Multiple Intelligences and Mind Mapping to think in new and creative ways.

Creativity enhances student performance and the ability to solve the complex challenges that face the world. Workshops have occurred in Rochester, NY and Pittsburgh, PA.

LEGACY OF '64: SOUL OF A NATION

Creativity grows with an expansion of the mind. The ability of an artist to expand their mind is often achieved through multicultural experiences. J Rêve International is contributing to this by organizing events that share, through art, the experiences of people and communities outside of one's own.

A LETTER FROM THE FOUNDER

Jacqueline Cofield

"It's difficult to imagine life without creatives. Yet, in many examples around the world, support for and engagement of the arts is not a priority. There is often a disconnect in terms of the value of art. We strive to shift this paradigm. Creativity matters: It impacts our work, business, health, student performance in school and is vital to tourism, conflict resolution, personal relationships, and the list goes on and on.

Creatives not only offer aesthetic or emotional experiences, they are problem solvers. J Rêve International exists to not only serve creatives, but to cultivate engagement of and appreciation for the arts. Through our global programs, we educate, inspire, encourage, and expose. We bring people together, who otherwise might not, and take their understanding and experience to another level. We are all the better for it.

I am thrilled to have, in such a short time, impacted so many lives around the world. We have a lot more to do. We will bring more people together and enhance interpersonal relations. We will educate more people about the impact that cultivating creativity has had and will continue to have in our world.

Dubai Kid's Essay Contest Winner

We will continue to provide opportunities for creatives to develop and share their expressions. Observing artists, educators, students, parents, and members of global communities benefit and grow from J Rêve International's programs renders it all worthwhile."
